North Bay Produce Voluntarily Recalls Certain Varieties of Fresh Apples due to Potential Listeria Monocytogens

October 28th, 2019

On October 25th, 2019 North Bay Produce Inc. voluntarily issued a recall of certain varieties of fresh apples packed and shipped from one packinghouse between October 16th-October 21st due to the potential to be contaminated with Listeria monocytogenes. The recall was initiated as a result of a product test which revealed that finished products contained the bacteria. The recalled product was shipped directly from the company to retailers, brokers and wholesalers in Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, North Carolina, Texas and Wisconsin. North Bay Produce, Inc. has informed the FDA and its customers of this recall. To date, health authorities have not linked any illnesses to this recall, and no other North Bay Produce products are affected by this recall. Consumers who have the recalled product in their possession should not consume it and should discard or return the product to the place of purchase.

Midwest Foods is NOT Associated with this recall. We do not carry the affected product. If you have any questions feel free to reach out to your Business Development Associate or contact customer service at 773.927.8870.
